PRESIDENT PROPOSES PEACE IN HISTORY-MAKING SPEECH

Tells Senate Of Plan For League To Prevent War.

"Greatest Document Since Declaration of Independence," Declares Newlands—"Giant Stride in International Comity," Says Tillman.

REPUBLICANS CHEER PRESIDENT'S WORDS; GALLERIES PACKED

Washington, Jan. 22.—President Wilson, in a personal address to the Senate today laid down the question of whether the United States shall depart from its traditional policy of isolation and no entangling alliances and take part in a world league to preserve peace after the war.

Shattering precedent of more than a century, the President, regarding the Senate with its treaty-making power as his counselor in foreign affairs, explained why he believes the time has come for the world to know America's position, and discussed the underlying causes on which he believes a permanent peace of the world can be maintained.

While President Wilson was speaking directly to the Senators, after the manner of Washington, Madison and Adams, his address was in the hands of all foreign governments or on its way to them.

History-Making Event.

No such history-making event with such far-reaching possibilities to the United States probably ever had been seen in the Senate chamber.

In the background of the fundamental proposition of whether the United States should alter the foreign policy laid down by Washington and carried out by a long line of Presidents was the possibility that out of some such league of nations might come a way to end the present war.

WHAT PRESIDENT WILSON PROPOSES

That the nations with one accord adopt the doctrine of President Monroe as the doctrine of the world.

That all nations henceforth avoid entangling alliances which would draw them into competitions of powers.

That no nation should seek to extend its policy over any other nation, but that every people should determine its own policy.

Government by the consent of the governed.

Freedom of the seas.

Moderation of armaments.

A league to hold the world at peace henceforth.

That armies and navies be a power for order only.

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN ORDERED HOME

Washington, Jan. 21.—More than 25,000 national guardsmen now on the Mexican border have been designated by Maj. Gen. Funston for return home and muster out of the Federal service, under the order issued yesterday by the War Department.

All these organizations will be started homeward as soon as transportation facilities can be provided. Their departure will leave between 45,000 and 50,000 men of the guard still in the Federal service doing border patrol.

Maj. Douglas MacArthur, department censor, expressed the opinion that it will be two weeks before the troops are at their home stations. It required sixteen days to send home the last militia organizations that were returned from the border.

The Second Kentucky Infantry is one of the numerous regiments to be returned.

Three Companies Leave.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 21.—Adj. Gen. J. Tandy Ellis today received a despatch advising him that the 1st, 2nd and 3rd companies recently returned from the State of Kentucky. The return was particularly for use in case of trouble when the companies are Company D, of the 1st, Third Regiment; Company E, of the 2nd, Second Regiment; and Company A, of the 3rd, Third Regiment. Their return was particularly for use in case of trouble when the trial of Lube Martin, negro, charged with murder, is called February 5.

$1,000 BID FOR ORIGINAL OF "LITTLE BOY BLUE"

Chicago, Ill.—A bid of $1,000 was made Monday for the original manuscript of the late Eugene Field's poem, "Little Boy Blue," which was contributed to the allied bazaar by Simon Thompson, an intimate friend of the poet. The bid was received from David R. Forgan, president of the National City Bank. The bazaar is for the benefit of the wounded of the Entente Allies.

MATRIMONIAL MARKET STRONG AT THIS SCHOOL

Jasper, Ind., Jan. 21.—The Huntingburg public schools are proving a better thing for fair teachers than the State teachers' retirement fund law. Listen to this: Three fair young women from different places came to Huntingburg to teach in the same school at the same time. They boarded and roomed at the same place. They became fast friends and each one of the three married a Huntingburg young man. The three young women were Miss Helen Gunz, of Milwaukee, former teacher of German, who last summer became Mrs. Will Partenheimer; Miss Clementine Carpenter, former teacher of domestic science, who on last Thanksgiving day was married to Will E. Ellsworth, and Miss Lucille Briscoe, former teacher of music and physical training, who this week became the bride of Samuel Partenheimer.

TOYMAKERS WOULD HAVE MIDSUMMER 'CHRISTMAS'

New York.—If the toy makers of the United States in annual convention here, can put their plans into effect, the Fourth of July will be made a sort of mid-summer Christmas, with Uncle Sam the patron Saint, instead of Santa Claus.

All agreed that the Fourth should continue as a festive occasion. The plan is to substitute for fire crackers and other explosives, American-made toys, with plenty of action and plenty of noise, but harmless.

The manufacturers report that the toy industry in this country has expanded 3 per cent. since 1914.

FAIRVIEW FARMER BITTEN BY A MAD COLT

Hydrophobia Feared—Animal's Head Sent to Bowling Green For Expert Analysis.

Noble Sims, a farmer on the Elkton pike, nine miles from town, was bitten by a colt that he was leading to water a few days ago. The colt on seeing the water was thrown into convulsions and attacked Sims, biting him on the arm and back, badly lacerating him. The animal continued to have convulsions and soon afterwards died. The head was sent to Bowling Green for examination for hydrophobia. Sims has been awaiting impatiently for a report, to decide whether he would go himself. He was preparing to go any day.—[Hopkinsville Kentuckian.]

Dewey Wiped Out Spanish Fleet Without Losing An American Sailor

In the death of Admiral Dewey yesterday afternoon, America lost her foremost naval officer. Every citizen will recall how in 1898 by his sheer indomitable courage, disregarding the reports of a channel heavily mined, he entered Manila bay and won one of the most notable naval victories of the last century and one that proved decisive in the defeat of the Spanish crown.

Admiral Dewey, a commodore then, was ordered to take a portion of the Pacific squadron, consisting of the protected cruisers Olympia, flagship of the commodore; Baltimore, Raleigh and Boston, and the unprotected cruiser Concord, together with the gunboat Petrel and the armed revenue cutter Hugh McCulloch, the purchased collier Nan-sham and a purchased supply ship Zafiro, and force the Spanish squadron, known to be in Manila bay, into action.

The commodore left his berth at Hong Kong, where he had been stationed, and dropped down to Mirs bay, several miles east of Chinese coast. Upon receipt of instructions to locate and destroy the Spanish fleet, Dewey left Mirs Bay April 25, 1898, and arrived at Luzon on April 30.

The Spanish admiral, Montojo, had anchored off the spit upon which was located the fort and arsenal of Cavite. He held his position in such manner as to keep his broadside to the northward. His fleet consisted of eleven vessels, all armed. In addition there was a six-gun battery at Fort Cavite with guns trained upon the opening of the channel.

Dewey stood off during the night and entered into the mouth of the channel, about five miles broad, on the morning of May 1, disregarding the report that the channel had been heavily mined with torpedoes. At midnight he was fired upon by the

THREATS AGAINST LIFE OF WILSON

U. S. Attorney Quotes Anarchistic Editorial in The Blast.

ASSASSINATION HINTED AT BY

"Blasters," Cunha Declares—Up-rising Plot Alleged in His Opening Address.

OTHERS ARE MENTIONED

San Francisco, Jan. 18.—That President Wilson's life was threatened by an anarchistic organization known as "The Blasters," of which Thomas J. Mooney, on trial here for murder was a leader, will be shown by evidence to be presented in Mooney's trial, Assistant District Attorney Edward A. Cunha declared today in Superior Court in his opening address to the jury.

"I will prove," said Cunha, "that these men plotted revolution against the Government. I will prove that they said in an edition of The Blast 'the weathercock in the White House had better watch out. Suppression of the voice of the discontent leads to assassination.'"

Beginning his address in court, Cunha outlined the history of the bomb explosion here last July in which ten persons lost their lives and in which it is charged Mooney had a part.

Conspiracy Alleged.

"I will show a motive for Mooney's participation in this crime and that he advised and encouraged it," said Cunha. "I will prove that prior to January, 1916, Mooney, Alexander Berkman, Miss M. E. Fitzgerald and others entered into a conspiracy to bring about an uprising against property owners, the confiscation of private property and the destruction of Government, and that they called themselves 'The Blasters' and publicly announced in 'The Blast' the object of their conspiracy. I will connect Mooney with this conspiracy by letters in his own writing and by articles he wrote in 'The Blast.' I will show that they planned to create a prejudice against and to betray the American Federation of Labor. I will show that before the parade Mooney declared 'preparedness must be thrown back into the teeth of its advocates.' Mooney declared if the Government had a large army the revolution would be nipped in the bud."

Cunha said that Mooney and the other conspirators, in their campaign against preparedness, declared that the first one of them to be approached by a recruiting officer should shoot him down.

Tsuchihida announced after the ceremony he would make his wife happy, as he intended to do the cooking.

The bride was accompanied here from Kentucky by her mother. Two years ago a sister married a Japanese and the two are now living happily together in this city.

LOUISVILLE WOMAN SHOT BY HUSBAND IN NASHVILLE

Physicians Say Mrs. Nellie Crystal Parker Cannot Live.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 21.—Mrs. Nellie Crystal Parker, daughter of Mrs. Laura Cottner, 1005 South Eighteenth street, Louisville, and who was shot by her husband, J. A. Parker, Saturday night, has not regained consciousness and physicians at the hospital say that she cannot live.

Frank S. Cottner, her brother, arrived in Nashville this morning from Louisville. Parker is under arrest charged with shooting with intent to kill. He has been unable to make bond.

Parker admits that there was a quarrel with his wife shortly before the shooting, but denies that he shot her positively. He said that he got out his pistol to clean and load it. While he held it in his hand his wife's chair collapsed, he said, and when he reached to save her from falling the pistol was accidentally discharged.

They were alone in the room at the time. Their two little girls were at a neighbor's, and the boy, Floyd, 10 years old, was in an adjoining room. He told the police that when he left the room where his parents were they were quarrelling.

LIVERMORE BAPTISTS

To Erect $10,000 Church Building—Already $7,500 Has Been Subscribed.

The revival meeting which has been conducted at the Livermore Baptist church for the past twelve days closed Friday. The revival was conducted by Rev. I. B. Timberlake, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Sam P. Martin, pastor of the Third Baptist church of Owensboro, and by Paul Montgomery. The church was greatly revived and strengthened. There were twenty-five additions to the church, says the Owensboro Messenger.

At the close of the meeting Friday evening the congregation decided to build a new church building. Four thousand dollars was quickly subscribed within twenty minutes. By Saturday afternoon there was $7,500 in sight which means $10,000 for the purposes of constructing a modern up-to-date church building.

The building committee is composed of Dr. H. J. Baird, chairman; J. S. Hughart, Walter Atherton, V. A. Morton, George Cullins and C. J. Cowgill.

GOOD OLD CIRCUS DAYS TO RETURN

Motor Trucks Take Place Of Old Time Wagon Train.

BIG CORPORATION FORMED

Prediction of "Buffalo Bill" and Showman of Half Decade Ago About to Come to Pass.

ECONOMY TO BE THE TEST

The restoration of the traveling circus of the "good old days" in all its pristine glory, freed from the shackles of unfriendly freight rates and the expensive wagon train is presaged by the news from New York yesterday that one of the country's greatest circus corporations is going to take advantage of the marvelous development in the motor truck industry.

The United States Circus corporation has contracted for the immediate delivery of one hundred automobile trucks, which it will use henceforth in lieu of trains or wagons. This is simply an initial order for experimental purposes, but President Frank P. Spellman, of the circus corporation believes that the result will warrant the transportation of all his company's attractions behind gasoline instead of steam or horsepower.

Economy To Be Test.

If auto truck transportation proves as convenient and as economical as this company hopes, the youth of this generation will be stirred by a sight similar to those which gladdened the hearts of their fathers—the inrolling circus caravan, strange, tarpaulined, mysterious. And it will have been made possible by the development of the little puffing engine.

The one hundred trucks purchased will form the nucleus for the United States Circus corporation's unique motor train circus, which will travel from city to city, over the highways, exclusively by motor trucks and automobiles, doing away with the immense labor, the uncertainties, delays and inconvenience of the railroads.

Assured Problem Solved.

It is the first motor train circus ever conceived, and the project is being closely watched by the automobile and outdoor amusement world in general. The problem of housing and transporting what will be one of the largest, the most costly, and most complete circuses in the world has been a tremendous one, but President Spellman says that it has been thoroughly and satisfactorily solved.

The idea of a motor-equipped circus was predicted half a decade ago by no less important personages in the circus world than Col. William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), W. W. Cole, John Robinson and Tody Hamilton, who stated that in ten years' time, the modern up-to-date circus would speed over the modern bitulithic highway. The dream of ten years ago has come to pass.

Gone is the day of the old-fashioned railroad circus. Enter the new modern motor circus of the United States Circus corporation.

Appointed Deputy Collector.

John T. May, of this city, has been appointed deputy United States revenue collector, under collector Josh Griffith, for the Fourth Division of the Second Internal Revenue District of Kentucky. Mr. May's district is composed of the counties of Muhlenberg, McLean, Ohio, Grayson, Logan, Simpson and Butler, and he will make his headquarters in Central City. Mr. May has been a life-long Democrat and rendered much service to his party, but has never before asked for an office, either elective or appointive, and he is receiving the congratulations of his many friends on his good fortune. He left for Owensboro yesterday morning where he made bond in the sum of $10,000 and taking the oath of office entered upon the discharge of his official duties.

RELICS OF COLUMBUS, NEW MEXICO MASSACRE

Sent to Senator Ollie M. James
By Kentucky Army Officer
Now on Border.

Relics of the recent Columbus, N. M., massacre, received this week by Senator Ollie M. James from a Kentucky army officer on duty on the border, were sent today to Marion, the Senator's home town, where they will be exhibited in the drug store of J. H. Orme. They comprise a 38-caliber revolver, spurs, a silver bridle rein, a halter and a fine saddle tree.

The interesting curios were shipped to Washington from Columbus by John Lee Maddox, U. S. A., chaplain of the Seventeenth Infantry, whose commission in the army was obtained on the recommendation of Senator James. Chaplain Maddox, a Baptist minister, was born and reared in Kentucky. He was an instructor for a number of years at Georgetown College.

The letter accompanying the curios follows:

"Columbus, N. M.—The Honorable Ollie M. James, United States Senate, Washington, D. C. Dear Senator James: I never have forgotten, and never will forget your kindness. My regiment is now in Mexico, while I was left here to look after the hospital and do what I could. I like the position better than I anticipated. There is a chance for great usefulness. Had a fine service for soldiers yesterday (Sunday). I am getting ready to install a motion picture show in order to keep the men away from 'blind tigers,' and other places of vice. It is a great life.

"I have collected a number of curios from the Columbus raid and from Mexico, and knowing that you have had much to do with the governmental action regarding Mexico, I have expressed them to your office in the Senate building. The packing is not so very artistic, but was about the best that could be done down here in camp, away from civilization.

"In the first place, you will find a Mexican saddle, from which a Mexican was shot during the Columbus raid by a soldier out of the Thirtieth Cavalry. You will see the Mexican's blood spattered upon the seat of the saddle.

"Secondly, I have sent a pair of Mexican spurs, with large rowels. These belonged to Pancho Villa's right-hand man.

"I have also sent a Mexican hackamore. This halter, or bridle, is made of horsehair and is used by Mexicans in lieu of a leather bridle. It came from Palemas, Mexico.

Name and Notches.

"Another thing that you will find is a pistol which was picked up on the street here after the raid. The Mexican who had it was killed. His name 'Juan' was written on the handle, and you will also find his mark two notches, on the same part.

"I have purchased a silver bridle rein and sent that too. It did not belong to Villa, but it did belong to some Mexican grandee, though I do not know his name. He, of course, lived in Mexico.

"I am sending these things now

DOUBLY PROVEN

Hartford Readers, Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This Hartford citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed.

Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.

S. L. King, proprietor harness and grocery store, Main St., Hartford, says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills a good medicine for kidney trouble for whenever I have a great deal of good. Several times I have suffered from pains that I knew were caused from weak kidneys. At these times I have got Doan's Kidney Pills and have used them as directed. They have never failed to cure the attack." (Statement given February 23, 1912.)

On November 15, 1916, Mr. King said: "I still have an excellent opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills and don't mind re-endorsing them. I use this medicine occasionally and always have excellent results."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. King has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

In the hope that they will reach you before the Senate adjourns and you leave the city.

"The result of the recent election was very fine and I only wish I could have taken part in it. But 'orders is orders' and I was ordered to stay here.

"Hoping that you will be pleased with the curios I have sent, I am, Yours with deepest gratitude.

"JOHN LEE MADDOX.

"Chaplain 17th Inf., U. S. A."

These relics of the Columbus massacre attracted much attention while they were on display in the office of Senator James, particularly the blood-bespattered saddle tree, covered with rawhide, which is made after the fashion of the conventional Texas cowboy saddle. His desire to give "the boys back home" the opportunity to see the curios prompted Senator James to send them to his friend Mr. Orme at Marion.

TAKE UP BRYAN'S PLAN.

"Prohi" Committee Meets—Will Have Attained Aims By 1920, Says Hinshaw.

Chicago.—Analysis of the vote polled by the Prohibition party at the last Presidential election was begun at the opening session of a meeting of the National Committee of the party. Members of the committee, which has before it plans for development of the party organization for the next campaign, expressed themselves as pleased with the polling of 214,000 votes at the election.

Virgil G. Henshaw, chairman, expressed his belief that the prime objective of the Prohibition party will have been attained by 1920. He said that by that time, the Prohibition party either would become the supreme political party or a part of a party embracing prohibition.

William J. Bryan's fight to compel the Democratic party to adopt a country-wide prohibition plank at its next national convention was to be discussed at the meeting here today.

DOG MAN'S BEST FRIEND

Massachusetts Boy Swallows Poison Rather Than Have His Puppy Killed.

Lawrence, Mass.—Charles J. Ward, 14 years old, preferred to die rather than put his pet puppy out of existence, and took poison intended for the dog.

He was found dead with this pathetic note at his side: "Don't kill my puppy. I will die in his place."

His foster father, P. T. Ward, a prominent business man, had ordered the boy to kill two family dogs that were suspected of carrying the germs of typhoid.

Mrs. Ward is critically ill of typhoid fever and she suspected that the dogs were typhoid carriers. She asked her husband to have them killed.

Master Charles was broken-hearted when told that he must administer the poison to one of the puppies, which was his favorite pet and companion. He worked all day at his foster father's store. When he left for the family home at 8 o'clock he carried the poison for the dog. When Mr. Ward reached home two hours later the boy was dead on the floor. One of the capsules containing the poison was missing. Both dogs were alive.

His pet kept watch over his young master's body.

PRELATE AGAIN WRITES OF BELGIUM'S PLIGHT

Cardinal Mercier, in a private letter printed in La Croix, the official church organ, declares if the truth was known about Belgium, neutral nations would not confine themselves to words. The Belgium Cardinal declares that Belgium is now suffering as never before. He writes:

"We are all prisoners here, but if the neutrals knew of the treatment inflicted on us I do not believe that they would confine themselves to verbal remonstrances. If they did, we should have to despair of fraternal charity and humanity."

The Cardinal adds in a postscript that although the Belgians are depressed, they are by no means discouraged, and few desire peace without victory.

And You Find
Sovereign King Of Them All

Well, way back in 1901, after I had been in this bright, happy world for several days, I began to get worried like. I didn't have any name.

Folks were calling me "it" and "the new one" and "whatdya-call-it." I didn't like it a bit. Then one day I heard the Big Chief telephoning all his department heads to meet in his office.

Pretty soon they all came filing in. Tall chaps, short chaps, fat chaps and skinny chaps. "Now that he is here," said the Big Chief, "what will you name him?"

My! how they wrangled and wrangled and wrangled. You know, you have heard them argue whether He'd be called Jack or John or Jim before. Finally, one fellow spoke up and said:

"Why not call him 'SOVEREIGN'? His mother was a Virginian, his father an aristocrat of the Carolinas. He comes from the very best stock. He comes from the very sweetest, ripest, mellowest Virginia and Carolina tobacco. He is being raised right in one of the cleanest, whitest, healthiest homes on earth. He is a Southerner born, a Southerner bred, a Southern gentleman—the king of them all—a real SOVEREIGN.

The Folks of the South KNOW good blood.
The Folks of the South KNOW good tobacco.

SOVEREIGN—the best—is none too good a name." So I was named, friend, for I want you as one of my friends, and it means a whole heap when I say—

I am guaranteed by The American Tobacco Co. —Buy me. If you don't like me return me to your dealer and get your money back. I have said it. A Southern gentleman is known the world over for keeping his word, and I have given you mine.

FOR THE GENTLEMAN OF THE SOUTH

From Sunny California.

Whittier, Cal., Jan. 4, 1917.

Editor Hartford Herald, Hartford, Ky.—To my friends in Ohio county: I left my home in Rosine for a visit to the sunny climes of the flowery State of California on December 25, 1916.

Arrived in Los Angeles Dec. 30. Of course I was wearied with so long a trip. Went immediately to Hotel Baltimore and as I was not accustomed to sleeping on a bed run by steam I soon retired for the night, and was supposed to be dead to the world, but being aroused from my sleep next morning I soon decided I was not in Rosine—quite a difference. When I left home the earth was white with snow, but here you can find most any kind of a flower you are looking for. At Pasadena, Cal., on New Years day, was a flower show, of all the best flowers that grow in California. It almost makes a Kentuckian believe its next to the Garden of Eden. This State champions the world for beautiful scenery. Travel through the country and you will see great fields of oranges, lemons and English walnuts. And the beauty of this is you will them gathering lemons, and same trees blooming. This means a perpetual harvest. And I am informed that some seasons oranges and lemons bring 6c per pound. This will beat tobacco at 20c, wheat at $2.50, corn at $2.00. You can take orange and lemon trees 6 to 8 years old, they are as large as our apple trees at this age and will bear full every year. Then it will be no trouble to see the inducement for immigration to California. Back in the early settlement land could be and was had just as cheap as in Kentucky, but some were born to fortune and others to fame. Yet, with all this, California hasn't us bested all around. We can boast of our fine horses, mules and cattle. And I know we have the prettiest women. The Kentucky women are recognized the world over for their perfect form and beauty.

Now, saloon men tell me here that they are never perfect in stock unless they have some of the sting of the devil. The old Kentucky brand of whisky.

Well, I am going to visit the oil fields here and ask for a job, and as I have previously had two years experience in that kind of work the probabilities are that I will get a job. Wages are very good. I have two sons here, one a driller, the other a helper. The two of them draw, I think, $355 per month.

Now, Mr. Editor as I have promised several of my friends at home a letter, will take this method of reaching most every home.

Wishing you a Mappy New Year and a prosperous business, I am, Yours truly,
PERRY CROWDER.

GOOD ADVICE.

You cannot escape him
By shutting the door
Or locking the window—
The good advice bore.

You cannot elude him
By scaling a peak,
And he'll—submarining—
Stay with you a week.

You cannot deny him;
For do what you will,
Like the scent of the rose, he
Will cling to you still.

Yet he has no power—
You haven't, you know;
He can't do what you can't;
But since it is so

That you can't escape him,
There's nothing to do
But try to put up with
That fellow named YOU.

MILITARY FUNERAL GIVEN LIEUT. HALE

Honors Are Paid to Murray, Ky., Officer By Comrades At El Paso.

El Paso, Tex.—With impressive military ceremony the funeral of Lieut. Gibson Hale, of Murray, Ky., who was accidentally killed on Saturday evening, was held here. Col. Henry and many other officers of the Third Regiment attended the ceremonies. Including Capt. King, who was present when Lieut. Hale was killed, Lieuts. Sory, Crump, Linton, Cain, Clark and Logan, acted as pallbearers. While the body was being conveyed through the streets from the undertaking establishment to the passenger station, the regimental band played a funeral march, and L Company, of the Third Kentucky, acted as guard of honor.

Thousands of soldiers and civilians lined the curbing and stood with bared heads while the procession passed. At the passenger station the Murray Company stood at attention facing the barren Sierras of old Mexico while the casket was being carried to the train. Presently the strains of "taps" the soldier's last good-bye, echoed in the interior of the station. L Company and the band then marched away to their camps on the outskirts of the city. Sergt. William Hale, brother of the dead Lieutenant, left for Kentucky in charge of the body. Capt. King, of K Company, of Owensboro, was handling a little shotgun a few moments prior to the accidental shooting of Hale, was fully exonerated by a board of officers, which was presided over by Capt. Terry Humble.

AIDED IN ROBBERY OF TRAIN, CHARGE

Medical Student, Recently In Louisville, He Says; Arrested.

Kansas City, Mo.—H. Grady Webb, a young medical student, is under arrest, charged by Federal authorities with having been a member of the gang which held up and robbed a Baltimore and Ohio train in Doddridge county, W. Va., of approximately $100,000 of unsigned currency in October, 1915.

Webb was identified by a fellow student, who recalled that the picture on a poster issued by the Government depicting the fugitive looked exceedingly like Webb. One thousand dollars reward was offered for the fugitive's capture. Federal officials say that about $1,000 of the money was found in Webb's possession.

VETERANS DECIDE TO MEET IN OWENSBORO

Owensboro will be the place for the annual reunion in June of United Spanish-American War Veterans. It was decided by members of the State Council of Administration in session in Louisville recently. The meeting in June will continue three days.

Owen Isaac, of Owensboro, was named senior vice commander to fill a vacancy in the State administration, caused by the recent death of Samuel E. Gipe, also of Owensboro. C. S. Lambert, of Covington, was appointed chief of staff by State Commander W. M. Coulson, who presided at the meeting of the council.

"Speaking of dying and going to another world, Mark Twain is not the only man who had friends in both places." Ben Marshall, of Frankfort, told a group of friends recently. Mr. Marshall, who is district deputy grand exalted ruler of the Elks, told the story while here attending the thirty-third anniversary dinner of Louisville Lodge, No. 8.

"I once had a friend who lost his wife, and his heart was broken," Marshall said. "However, another woman mended it for him in about six months. He didn't get along so famously with her as he did with the first one, and it was fully fifteen years before the Good Lord took mercy on him a second time. Finally he got sick himself, and the doctor, a friend, said to him: 'John, you've been a gay old Elk, and you ought to make your peace with God. Your time has about come, John, and if you are not in good standing with Him you'd better get busy.' But John died as gamely as he had lived. He merely replied: 'Well, Doc, it don't make much difference whether I do or not. Whichever place I go, I'll have a loving wife to meet me!'" better get busy.' But John died as gamely as he had lived. He merely replied: "Well, Doc, it don't make much difference whether I do or not. Whichever place I go, I'll have a loving wife to meet me!"

THIS IS THE TIME FOR YOUR HENS TO BE LAYING.

Egg prices are unusually high just now and there is no prospect that they will be anything else this winter. Egg boycotts in the cities are becoming common. In New York the moving picture shows are helping tell the people who attend them not to buy eggs until prices go down. Evidently the average New York family cannot have eggs and movies both, and is going to do without eggs.

That is the ridiculous side of the high price situation. The business side of it is this: The average hen does not lay more than half as many eggs during the winter as she would lay if properly treated. Almost any farmer can add to his egg returns this winter, and most farmers could double theirs. Dry, clean houses, free from drafts, attention to parasites, green feed, grit and lime, an abundant supply of mixed grains and either milk or some form of meat scrap will bring the eggs this winter, and every egg will bring a good price. The man who makes his hens lay is going to make money, and almost any farmer can do this. "A word to the wise—"

DWARF CHARGE TOUGH PROBLEM TO HANDLE

Reformatory Inmates Eager to Glimpse Man Who Arrived Wearing Skirts.

Ralph Barger, the dwarf received at the Indiana Reformatory, Jeffersonville, from Franklin, Johnson county, to serve from two to twenty-one years for killing his father, Mack Barger, August 1, spent an uneventful day at the institution Tuesday. He has been placed in the hospital, not for treatment, but to isolate him from hundreds of the other inmates. He will be kept there until a full complement of reformatory clothing is provided for him. This may not be for two or three days, as there are a number of preliminaries to go through. No stock uniform at the institution is small enough for Barger and all of his clothing will have to be made under measurements.

Along with his preparations to begin life as a prisoner Barger will be photographed, his Bertillon measurement and finger prints taken, he will be given a bath and barbered. It was with considerable reserve that Supt. D. C. Peyton talked regarding Barger yesterday and said he did not know what he would do with him, but he will have to have some employment to keep him in health. Barger is deformed to a considerable extent, his head being unusually large and he has an abnormal growth on his back. Supt. Peyton said Barger was sensitive about his looks and was easy to offend.

Consideration Promised.

During the supper hour Supt. Peyton addressed the other inmates regarding the new arrival. They were told he regretted his condition and imagined he constantly was being held up to ridicule. The other prisoners were asked to treat Barger kindly, endeavor not to humiliate him and show him respect. The inmates to a man signified they would obey the request and they already are showing an interest in him, although few have seen him. It was known all over the institution a prisoner was to arrive in dresses and this caused much speculation.

Supt. Peyton intimated Barger was a charge he did not appreciate and said the institution was no place for him, leaving the impression some way would be found to secure other quarters for him. About every two weeks, Supt. Peyton said, Barger is subject to epileptic attacks and suffers rigors in a severe form. For this reason he thinks he should be in some other institution. Barger was not always as epileptic. He attended school several years and made good progress. From childhood he has suffered from curvature of the spine and Mrs. Barger said she continued to clothe her son in dresses because a physician had told her the boy must have as little weight as possible on his back.

TRADE RESOLUTIONS AGAINST NEUTRALS

Quickening of Interest in Russo- American Commerce Relations.

Petrograd, (via London).—Russia's holiday period, ending today with the New Year, brought an auspicious quickening of interest in Russo-American commercial relations. The American Ambassador, David R. Francis, returned today from a semi-official visit to Moscow, where a reception was given in his honor by the Russo-American Chamber of Commerce.

The Ambassador discussed with prominent Moscow officials and business men methods of developing commerce between the two countries. Amplifying the sentiments expressed to the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Francis, in a statement to The Associated Press and the Rusky Slovo called attention to the growing knowledge and confidence of America in Russian resources, but said that commercial relations could only be securely established and properly developed by a greater interchange of commodities.

"America has been selling much more to Russia since the beginning of the war than she has been buying," continued the Ambassador, "but Russia can produce many things which America can use. There is no reason why the people of these two great Powers, whose Governments always enjoyed friendly relations, should not get closer together for mutual education and benefit. That end cannot be accomplished, however, if the principles or resolutions of the economic conference of the Allies at Paris last June are confirmed and carried out."

"These resolutions, while inspired by the desire to prevent a revival of economic supremacy, as it were, of the countries with which the Allies are at war, are at the same time a discrimination against commerce with neutral countries, many of which have been supplying the Allies with requirements for a successful prosecution of the war, and in so doing have provided much material without which the Allies would not have been successful as they have been."

The idea that America has received nothing but a benefit from the war is a mistake, and the charge that America desires to see the war continue because of profits she derives has so little foundation that it needs no explanation or defense."

The Ambassador and the whole diplomatic corps attended the New Year's reception given by the Emperor today.

Great Is Sagebrush.

Nobody loves the sagebrush, yet somebody is always trying to uplift it. This is a difficult task since its antecedents are so bad. Nevada complained a long time because she was called the "Sagebrush State," hunters hated the plant because of the bitter flavor it imparted to the grouse; prospectors, settlers, stockmen despised it because it encumbered the earth. It was fit only for rattlesnakes to coil in and strike or for coyotes to blend their tawny skins into vanishment.

Not long ago an Oregon man cried "eureka." He said that sagebrush was the best roadbuilding material in the West. Now Idaho claims in the despised weed a source of great wealth and the solution of the problem of potato shortage.

"The average acre produces three tons of sagebrush at a cost of $25. The sagebrush burned in the kiln gives from 25 to 30 per cent potash. The supply is inexhaustible."

The Idaho poet, who called for a festival "to lift the curse from the plant we know so well and should love," may now consider himself even with those who jeered and refused to forego their with him. —[New York Sun.]

THE BREECHES BIBLE

And a Famous Old Riddle Written
On Interleaves of a Copy.

My husband, Robert R. Dearden, has one of the famous "Breeches Bibles" in good condition. The earliest trace that we have of the book is that it was purchased "at an auction sale about the year 1837 at a place called Heywood, near the town of Bury, Lancashire, England." It was brought to America soon afterward by a Mr. Crossley, and purchased from him in the year 1855 by William Dearden, of Northampton, Mass., who gave it to his son Robert in 1884.

In the volume the Old Testament was printed in 1598 and the New Testament in 1597. It has the "Apocrypha," also, "The Preface of the Christian Reader Touching the Two Alphabets" in the book and directions "How To Take Profit by Reading the Holy Scriptures," and "Godly Prayers," "containing the duties of every true Christian." Between the Old and New Testaments in old-style handwriting is this "riddle," the answer being "a goose quill—a pen."

Of flesh and blood I first was bred,
As other creatures be;
Yet is there neither shape of flesh
Nor blood remains in me.

I was as small as any worm
When I began to grow,
But coming into riper years
My shape was changed so
That I was taken from the soil
Where I was born and bred,
And not for some but many things
Did pour out of my head;
Which being done then did I drink
Whereby such powers I had.

That I put strife 'tween King and King
Yet made true lovers glad;
I made some brothers deadly foes,
I made all friendships fail;
I made the angry folks to weep
And poorer folk to wail.
All this and ten times more did I,
And such things must do still;
Yet did I nothing of myself,
But all against my will.

This edition was printed during the latter part of Queen Elizabeth's reign. The Bible, which was printed in 1594, takes its name from the following rendering of Genesis iii. 7: "And they sewed them fig leaves together and made them breeches." —[Philadelphia Press.]

How To Check That Cold.

When it is painful to breathe and fever sends chills up and down your back, you are in for a cold. A timely dose of Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey will stop the sneezes and sniffles. The pine balsam loosens the phlegm and clears the bronchial tubes, the honey soothes and relieves the sore throat. The antiseptic qualities kill the germ and the congested condition is relieved. Croup, whooping cough and chronic bronchial affections quickly relieve. At all druggists, 25c.—Advertisement.

The Basis of National Feeling.

"National feeling is obviously only a conspicuous instance of those corporate enthusiasms which are spontaneously generated as soon as one recognizes himself to be a member of a group. Whether one belongs to the French Institute, a Daughter of the Revolution, a brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio, a delegate to a religious congress, is rooting for Harvard or ascending his genealogical tree, he finds," writes James Harvey Robinson in the Century, "his personality agreeably expanding. Palfry, diffident and discontented 'I' becomes proud and confident 'we.'"

Some Odd Christian Names.

An appellant rejoicing in the curious name of Rezia at the last sitting of the Somerset tribunal caused an inquiry where he got it from. He replied from the Bible, where it is only mentioned once—I Chronicles vii, 39. There lived for many years in the village of Twer-ton, Bath, one named Miah. He was born a twin, and his parents thriftily divided the predestined name of Jeremiah between them, the other babe being christened Jere.—London Globe.

Divide the family responsibilities with the older children, but do not expect them to use your head in carrying them. These should make a sort of training school for the big ones that they will have to handle. —[Southern Agriculturist.]

M. S. Vanover, age seventy-seven, and Mrs. Savana Vanover, seventy, recently secured license to marry at Owensboro. Truly Dan Cupid is ever on the job—age being no bar.

Arch B. Davis, who has been Secretary of the Kentucky State Bankers Association for the past seven years, has resigned to accept the cashiership of the Union National Bank at Louisville.

A news dispatch says that a Pittman, N. J., pastor recently found eighteen good-sized pearls in a raw oyster. Oysters coming as they do, from the same waters inhabited by the finny tribe, we can't help but believe this story a little "fishy."

Admiral George Dewey, the world's ranking naval officer, and hero of Manila Bay, was buried Saturday in Arlington cemetery. During the services the entire machinery of the Government was halted, and private business was suspended for an hour and a half.

The Courier-Journal and Louisville Herald are both exerting their best efforts to induce the Governor to call an extra session to consider the proposed taxing-law. Think of the Courier-Journal and Louisville Herald agreeing on any one thing! What's the joke, fellows?

The Herald was issued this week under somewhat of a handicap, as our foreman and machine operator were on the sick list Friday and Saturday, and the editor has been suffering since Saturday with what is known as "pink-eye." But we succeeded in getting the paper out—and on time, too.

James B. McNamara, who is serving a life sentence in the San Quentin (Cal.) prison for his confessed part in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building in 1910, continues steadfast in his refusal to work in the jute mills and is confined there longer than any other prisoner in the last five years.

Horace Spalding, age 26, shot and killed Mrs. Myrtle Watson, on Sixth street, in Louisville, Sunday morning about 1 o'clock, and then threatened to kill any one who came near him. After his arrest he acknowledged he and the Watson woman had been drinking—another evidence of what John Barleycorn makes men do and one of many thousand good reasons why old man "booze" should be put out of existence.

The Courier-Journal some time ago mailed cards to all representatives, county judges and editors of the State to ascertain their opinion as to the calling of an extra session to consider the proposed taxing-law, and the last tabulated report we saw of the replies mailed in to this paper was that something like 63 representatives voted yes, three no and perhaps one or two non-com. The county judges and editors were in the majority with no. So it is plain to be seen who wants the extra session—those (we have mentioned in these columns before) who are anxious to relieve the State of its deficit—or cash.

THE FARM LOAN LAW.

One of the most promising features of the Farm Loan Law is the encouragement given for ownership of farms by those who cultivate them. Only those who actually cultivate or propose to cultivate land can obtain the benefits of the loans. Not only does this law provide money for improving the farm and conserving the soil, but it is so elastic that the prospective purchaser can secure funds to aid him in paying the purchase price.

In the proportion that people own their homes, as a rule, we have contentment, civic pride, better roads, finer schools, more churches and prosperity generally.

According to the census of the United States the percentage of farm homes owned decreased from 65.9 in 1890 to 62.8 in 1910. The number of rented farms has gradually increased, the last census shows that 37.2 per cent. of the total farm homes are occupied by tenants.

In analyzing these figures as to States we find Kentucky above the average. The number of farms owned increased slightly during the twenty years from 1890 to 1910. At the first named period 65.3 per cent and at the last census 66.6 per cent of the total were owned.

Coming still closer home, Ohio county makes a fair showing, as in 1910, 73 per cent. of the farm homes were owned and 27 per cent. rented. Yet, this is not what it should be—more than one-fourth of the farm homes in the county occupied by tenants. However, this is a natural condition where farm loans on reasonable terms are so difficult to obtain. Banks, of course, desire to keep their assets as liquid as possible, hence seek to place their funds out on short time notes with personal security, and the farmer, in the main, must depend upon getting loans from foreign corporations, which usually prove either directly or indirectly expensive. Under the Farm Loan Law, money can be borrowed at a very low rate and on long time—even forty years, and the amortization plan enables the farmer to pay off the debt in small installments each year as he pays the interest.

Ohio county farmers can take advantage of this liberal and equitable law if they will, and the sooner preparations are made to seek its benefits the sooner farm life here will become more attractive. Get together, farmers, get together.

SUPREME COURT DECISION.

The substance of Chief Justice White's opinion, in brief, is that the prohibitory laws may not be violated by common carriers on the ground that obedience to the laws is an interference with inter-State Commerce.

"The all-reaching power of government over liquor is settled," said the Chief Justice. "There was no intention of Congress to forbid individual use of liquor. The purpose of this act was to cut out by the roots the practice of permitting violation of State liquor laws. We can have no doubt that Congress has complete authority to prevent paralyzing of State authority."

"Congress exerted a power to coordinate the national with the State authority."

"Under the Webb-Kenyon act there is no power in inter-State commerce to ship liquor from one State into another to enable it to be used in any way prohibited by the State."

The West Virginia law which was upheld does not forbid the personal use of liquor but it does restrict the power to obtain it for such use.

COUNTRY'S FOREIGN RELATION

Must be Kept Above Party Consideration Says Mr. Garrison.

New York, Jan. 18.—Unless the present problems confronting the United States are settled soon and rightly the nation "must mourn in sack cloth and ashes" for its folly and heedlessness, declared Lindley M. Garrison, former Secretary of War, in an address before the New York State Bar Association.

"In that day the execration heaped upon those who led the nation astray," he asserted, "will differ in degree only from that heaped upon those who saw the light and knew the way, but had hearts too frail to lead on the proper way."

Mr. Garrison declared that the country's foreign relations must be kept above party consideration and consonant with national traditions. The energies of the wisest and best leaders the nation can produce will be taxed, he said, to determine the part the United States should play in world politics.

"To avoid unnecessary conflict this nation should do all consistent with self respect to avoid war," he continued. "I will waste no time discussing avoidance of war by supine surrender of our self-respect, or by refusal to defend and maintain the nation's interests against the nation's enemies, for what profiteth it a nation to save its skin if it lose its soul?"

"Other proposals rising from men who love their country, revolve around the central idea of a world alliance to insure, preserve and enforce peace through a world court or world parliament. With this suggestion I am in entire and wholehearted sympathy; but we must not let emotion lead us into a radical departure from the policy which has made and kept us great. Fear for our safety need not cause us to enter such an agreement, for we have both men and means to provide for our safety, and if we will not avail ourselves of them we are not worth saving. We should consider carefully whether mixing in the affairs of other nations is not probably a surer way to produce war than to prevent war. No self-respecting nation should enter such an alliance unless it is prepared to accept the consequences of seeing its destiny determined by other minds and other interests."

It isn't wise to take even advice unless you are sure it really belongs to you.

"Fire When You Are Ready, Gridley!"
Won Fame for Dewey at Manila Bay

"Find the Spanish fleet, capture or destroy it."

"JOHN D. LONG,
Secretary of the Navy."

This order, following the sinking of the Maine in Havana Harbor, led to one of the greatest naval battles in history and placed the name George Dewey beside those of Nelson, Farragut and Porter.

Commodore Dewey was in Manila Bay, off Hongkong, April 27, 1898, with four protected cruisers, including the flagship Olympia, two gunboats, two supply transports and a dispatch boat, when he received the order.

Arriving at the entrance to Manila Bay the night of April 30, Dewey ordered all lights out and proceeded past the forts of Corregidor, guarding the entrance and thirty miles from Manila.

The channel was planted with mines and torpedoes, but the six fighting ships managed to steal through safely.

Toward dawn Dewey's fleet came in sight of Cavite, five miles south of Manila, where he saw the Spanish fleet at anchor, under protection of formidable land batteries.

Admiral Montojo was in command of six protected cruisers, one scout cruiser, three gunboats and two supply transports.

When Dewey was seven miles from Cavite, the forts opened fire. The future Admiral made no reply, but went straight to the enemy. The Olympia, with Dewey on the bridge, led the way.

The Spanish forts and ships kept up their hot fire but no gun was fired from the American squadron until the Olympia was opposite them.

Then Dewey gave his famous order to Cat. Gridley of the Olympia which brought on the destruction of the Spanish fleet.

"You may fire when you are ready, Gridley."

Immediately the guns of the Asiatic fleet poured broadside after broadside at the enemy.

The Spaniards were poor marksmen and failed to touch the American ships, while most of Dewey's shots hit.

Admiral Montojo engaged Commodore Dewey in a duel, but the Spanish flagship went down under an eight-pound shell from the Olympia, and Admiral Montojo was barely saved from death.

Six hours after the first shot was fired the white flag went up on Cavite, and Dewey took note of the losses.

Not an American was lost, and only seven were wounded, while 200 Spaniards were killed and between 500 and 700 wounded.

Dewey's ships suffered no material damage while they sank three of the Spanish protected cruisers, burned the other three the three gunboats, scout cruiser and one of the transports and captured the other transport with two tugs and several launches.

Dewey's victory at Manila Bay the first great event of the Spanish-American War.

The next great naval battle took place off Santiago, Cuba, July 3, 1898, when Commodore Schley and acting Rear Admiral Sampson bottled up Cervera's fleet in Santiago Harbor, after Lieut. Hobson's heroic sinking of the Merrimac in the channel.

Shot to Death—Brother-in-Law Accused.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 18.—Miss Nellie M. Dunn, a young school teacher, was called from her classroom here late today and shot to death, and a few minutes later at his studio nearby, Rowland D. Williams, music instructor and composer, also was shot to death. No one witnessed the slaying. John M. Couch, a brother-in-law of Miss Dunn, is held in the Federal jail at Guthrie, Oklahoma, charged with having committed the murders.

Couch, who is 40 years old, fled from Oklahoma City immediately after Miss Dunn and Williams were killed and surrendered to the Federal authorities on an old charge of sending obscene matter through the mails.

HOPKINSVILLE MAN

Dies As a Result Of Poison In Prescription—Wrong Drug Being Used.

Mr. E. M. Flack died at one o'clock Monday as a result of poison in a prescription, the wrong drug being used, says the Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

The prescription was given by his son-in-law, Dr. R. L. Woodard, and called for kodine as one of the ingredients. It was taken to J. O. Cook's drug store and in the absence of Mr. Cook, who was at home ill, was filled by Jack Goodman, the pharmacist. After filling the prescription Mr. Goodman tasted the mixture and sent it to Mr. Flack, who was suffering from bronchial asthma. As soon as the medicine arrived he took a prescribed dose and in a short while began to suffer with dizziness. In the meanwhile Goodman himself became sick from having tasted the medicine and went to Dr. Perkins' office near by and a quick investigation disclosed the fact that Goodman had used atropine instead of kodine. Dr. Woodard telephoned at once to see if Mr. Flack had taken the medicine and learning that he had rushed to him at once and with other physicians did everything possible to save his life, but in vain. He took the medicine about 11 o'clock and died two hours later.

Jack Goodman, the druggist who made the fatal mistake, is 20 years old and an assistant registered pharmacist, who will take his final examination in April. He is a son of Mr. John A. Goodman, of Elkton, and came here from Bowling Green three weeks ago.

AVERTED A TRAGEDY.

A Perilous Situation and the Way It Was Mastered.

There is a striking illustration in Das Buch fur Alle of the fact that it is not necessary to roam over the world to find adventure. The German merchant of the story found it in his own peaceful house in the quiet town of his birth. It happened on his daughter's wedding day, about sixty years ago. The happy father was alternately welcoming the guests and bustling about attending to final details.

In one of the halls he met a maid carelessly carrying a lighted candle without its holder. He did not rebuke her, as she was not one of the regular servants, but had only been brought in to help for the occasion. In a short time she returned from the cellar, her arms full of bottles, but with no candle. The absence of the light sent a sickening thought sweeping over the merchant. Only the day before several barrels of gunpowder had been stored in the cellar, and one of them had been opened in order to get a sample for a customer.

"Where is that candle?" he asked her quickly, with his heart in his mouth.

"I had my hands full and couldn't bring it up," the maid answered.

"Where did you leave it?"

"I stuck it in the black sand in the open barrel," she explained.

But the merchant had not waited to hear her out. Into the hall and down the cellar steps he stumbled. His knees were shaking, his breath caught in his throat; death already seemed to have its grip upon him.

Just beneath the room in which the guests were assembled stood the fatal barrel, the burning tallow candle upright in the powder. To his horror he saw a long piece of burned out wick sagging in the reddish flame. If that spark should fall! He made a desperate move toward the candle—and stopped. The slightest touch or breath might shake that glowing bit of wick into the powder. He heard the sound of laughter from above, and he trembled. He stared at the light, powerless to move.

Suddenly the end of the wick nodded, and with its movement the merchant recovered from his momentary paralysis. Cautiously he thrust both hands toward the candle; then, with a sudden squeeze, he smothered the wick and flame in his grasp. Never relaxing his hold, he carried the candle the length of the cellar; then he faint.

A Fine Distinction.
"Is her husband a medical man?"
"No, I think he's just a specialist, or something."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WASTED TIME IN COURT.

How It Might Be Saved by Following the English System.

Professor Higgins tells how waste of time is avoided in English courts and suggests that the same practice ought to be adopted in American courts. It is done by "leading questions" of which the following is an example in an action for personal injuries, where the fact of the injury is admitted, but the negligent act denied:

"Your name is John Doe, living at so and so. You are a painter by trade, and on May 1, 1914, you were on the Strand opposite the law courts and saw the accident when the plaintiff was run over by the defendant's bus, and you helped to pick the plaintiff up and carry him from the roadway?"

To which the witness answers "Yes." Now, in an American court the testimony in that one question and answer would have been the subject of at least eight distinct questions and eight distinct answers, and in the hands of some lawyers, this information would not have been elicited short of twenty questions, as: "State your name to the jury." "Where do you reside?" "What is your business?" "Where were you on May 1, 1914, at the hour of so and so?" "State what accident you saw there, if any?" "What did you do then?" And so on, and so on.

American courts are run in as leisurely manner as if there was nothing else on hand except the trial of the particular case at bar, whereas usually the court is weeks, often months, and sometimes a year behind in its docket.—Kansas City Star.

Ancient Abyssinia.

The Abyssinians are a race renowned for their courage and good looks. Of a deep brown in color, they are well formed and handsome, intelligent and fond of gayety, too, but their needs are very simple, and they live in primitive fashion in rough circular stone huts thatched with grass. The history of Abyssinia dates very far back. Before Christ the country formed part of the ancient country of Ethiopia. The queen of Sheba was an Abyssinian queen, and the kings of Abyssinia claim descent from her.—London Spectator.

Sick Herrings.

"Why," said a youngster to his elder brother, "do herrings have so many more illnesses than other fish?"

"Who says they do?" asked the youth addressed.

"Why, this book says that thousands upon thousands of them are cured every year."

Not to Be Deceived.

"Have you studied the plays of Sophocles?" asked the serious young man.

"Quit joking," replied Mr. Lowbrow. "I know everybody in both hemispheres. There ain't any such player."—Wash.

A Destitute Family.

On last Saturday, citizens from Simmons, in Ohio county, came to Hartford to report to the County Judge the destitute circumstances of Mrs. George Hillyard and her six little children. In the absence of the County Judge, the matter was reported to the County Attorney, and, after thorough investigation, County Poor Farm Keeper, Charlie Smith, was called and immediately sent with a conveyance to the home of the Hillyards and took Mrs. Hillyard and her children to the County Poor Farm where, for the first time in two days, they were given food. Medical attention was immediately called for two of the little children, who were seriously ill. The entire family were warmed and fed and are now in the most comfortable quarters they have had for a good while.

A warrant of arrest was promptly issued for the father of the little children because of his having left them in destitute circumstances.

Farmers Suffer As Result Of Deer
Pest—Wants Laws Changed.

Glasgow, Scotland.—Scotland is suffering from the deer pest. Hundreds of herds of deer are descending on farms and devouring the crops. Farmers and land agents reported these conditions at a recent meeting of the Scottish Chamber of Agriculture (and demanded amendments to the game laws so that more deer could be shot and the food supplies increased.

It seems that 9,000,000 of Scotland's 19,000,000 acres are officially described as "mountains and heath grazing land." Of this more than 2,000,000 acres are deer forest proper, and on much of the rest deer compete with sheep and cattle for the pasture. A good landlord encloses his preserves with a fence and keeps it in repair. But it was said at the Chamber meeting that there are many bad landlords.

One of the biggest sheep farmers in Scotland declared that a nation long injured by tradition to the dominance of the great landowning families would long ago have demands that deer should be confined to the poor lands, and that the better lands should be used for crops, pasture or afforestation.

Routed Bear With Hands.

Elmer Mower and Bert Bills, cattlemen of the old Palo Alto mine district, fought a big black bear for possession of an abandoned miner's cabin and the cattlemen won.

Mower and Bills, overtaken by a snowstorm, sought refuge in the cabin. They were beginning to get comfortably warm before the fire they had kindled when a big black bear that had been hibernating in the cabin was awakened by the warmth. The bear showed fight, and Mower, who is of unusual size and strength, accommodated him. Neither of the cattlemen were armed, but Mower grappled with the bear and forced him out of the cabin. The bear, seeing he was defeated, turned tail and ran.—[Maysville (Cal.) Cor. Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

MADNESS OF BANDITS IS

PICTURED BY REV. ISADORE

Clergyman Likens Conditions

Across Border to Those of French Reign of Terror.

Conditions in Mexico rival those of the great French Revolution," said Father Isadore, C. P., of Holy Cross Monastery, just returned to Cincinnati, who just has completed a mission in the Southern States, where he obtained information from reliable sources. Senor Iberto Gomez, a Mexican who accompanied Father Isadore to this city, was major-domo of a large hacienda in the State of Yelaya. He was forced to flee to the United States to save his life.

The tactics of all bandits are the same, according to Father Isadore. When they enter a town they first deprive the people of all arms. Then they commandeer all food and vehicles, loot churches and homes, shoot some of the most prominent citizens, and drag their bodies around the town as an example to the already terrified populace.

As a general rule, they then seize clergymen, he declared, and demand an exorbitant sum as a ransom, which the poor people can not obtain.

In the State of Yelaya bandits held the Bishop in the most abject slavery until the people raised $300,000 as ransom, he said.

Senor Gomez said that the majority of the peons do not care to better their condition is shown by the fact that the proprietor of the hacienda of which he was major-domo offered his hundred peons a plot of ground, stock and implements, so that they could be self supporting. Nearly all refused the offer, he said, as they would rather work under some one and be assured a good livelihood than to assume the responsibility of managing their own land.

Although Villa is at times exceedingly cruel, he shows mercy to priests. This was shown when he sent 15 of them in a cattle car to this country rather than kill them, according to Father Isadore.

In comparing the Governors of Mexican states, Father Isadore said Felix Diaz was the best. He said although it is not generally known, Diaz has control of a large district around Oaxaja. Zapata is not so harsh as either Villa or Carranza. When Zapata gets in a town the first thing he does is to reopen the churches and give the people more freedom than they have had for a long time, he averred.

"The atrocities perpetuated upon women are not fit to print, and even if they were, the people in this country would discredit them," said Father Isadore.

A Baby's Question.

A mother sat by the little white bed of her tiny child, holding her hand.

"Tell me about God, mother," whispered the child.

"God is Beauty, dear."

"Are you God, mother? You are beautiful."

"No, dear, I'm not God. I only try to be like Him."

"Then I love Him, if He's like you."

Happily the child drifted off to sleep.

The mother sank to her knees beside the little bed.

"Oh, Father," she breathed, make me worthy of this priceless gift Thou has bestowed upon me.

"Make me pure, make me strong.

"Help me stand out against the drift of all cruel, false, foolish custom, that would rob me of this precious communion with my child.

And God smiled His benediction, and the angels sang.

A Pleasant Time Was Had.
Festivities ruled the funeral services of Henry Alscheimer, hotel proprietor of East Meadow, L. I. The joviality of the affair was in accordance of the wishes expressed by the deceased shortly before his death.

A brass band was engaged, and during the services it played. The interment was held at Manhasset, which was also accompanied by a selection of the latest ragtime.—[New York American.

Legislators Who Stand Not Only For Submission But For Adoption Of Amendment By People To Be Campaigned For This Year

People Must Rule.

"I believe in the right of the people to rule, and I made that a part of the doctrine that the people have a right to rule, when a majority of the people of this country declare that the salaried men, who are the politicians of this day, are an outlaw, and the Democratic party shall not stand sponsor for an outlaw. All I have in politics is the people. That day is the Democratic party. It took me up when I was a young man in a Western State and it made me a leader. It gave me the opportunity to associate with the leaders of my party, and then, without an organization, it nominated me for Governor of Kentucky. Three years afterward it renominated me by acclamation, and eight years ago, without any nomination, it received nine-tenths of the vote of the Democratic national convention for a third time, and in three campaigns it elected me Governor of Kentucky. I am a half million of Democrats, and, my friends, obligated as I am to the Democrats, I would have been contemptuous if I allowed brewers and saloon-keepers and distillers to wreck my party without giving my voice in protest. I have been my chief business for the next four years to help take the Democratic party out of the hands of the salaried men, and the help of men who ever tried to enrich them-ers' Loan Bank, and I was interested to read how proud you are that you have made that a part of your doctrine. Since you go to ask for a Farmers' Bank when you conspire against every farmer, a 300,000,000 dollar bank, and you are going to ruin the family of every one of them to increase his business. What makes your great pride in it? Is it because of Kentucky, because of your high land, and the valleys you have a toiling population, and it is the wealth they gather from your soil that you are so proud of? Or is it because yet your business men and your bankers will allow a few distillers to take an ox-bow turn in the road, and enter into a conspiracy against the welfare of the people from whom they draw all the money that your city makes. One hundred and six counties in this State are so poor that their people dry in spite of everything your citizenship of Louisville has done. You tried to make a saloon a legal option, you tried to disfranchise your farmers, you tried to continue a system that enabled the saloon to establish itself in a little corner of the State, and to keep its influence throughout the entire agricultural community roundabout, and when your farmers and your people are so poor, and were deaf and you heard nobody, but your distillers, who does not live among the saloons and the distilleries?"

The Distillers and the Saloonmen.

"Where does the distiller live? Among the saloons the he controls? No. The

If the Democratic party dump its liquor men on it, the Democratic party acts first it will drive out of the Democratic party those peculiarly interested in the liquor traffic, and they will go into the Republican party, and the Republican party will have all of our bad men, and heaven knows they have enough bad men in that party now without ours. But suppose the Republican party blows first. We will get their bad men, and we haven't room for any more bad men.

"He has won great victories, and if ever man in the history of this great country has earned a rest, he has done it. But that is not the question. The greatest friend of the human race, that man in the world today, I may not agree with him on every question, but upon the great issues I do, and I realize that in this great fight that we have in Kentucky and in this nation for the preservation of our liberties and our rights, and for the betterment of all have all these I have mentioned, and all have his splendid and incomparable and devoted leadership. It means victory is a great thing for us in Kentucky where the struggle is so difficult, that this man, who has won all of these victories for these people, who has sacrificed himself, at much inconvenience, has left a attractive home in the Sunny South where he has a family and a splendid home. Kentucky Democrats in behalf of this great issue."

these challenges, the demands created by such tremendous force that only a resolute and fearless Democracy can meet, hence the organization of the Democratic Party, and it has been told, it is an organization within the Democratic party, and to accomplish its purposes within the lines.

Let me briefly define some of the characteristics of a Forward Democracy. The first is a sincere reference to the present big question.

It must be a courageous and fearless Democracy. I think I speak advisedly when I say that the influence this side of the gates of hell cuts so far as the liquor business. You men who accepted this challenge may expect to find a great deal of opposition that ingenuity can invent, but it is a matter of deflation of character. I am not in believing, however, that the Democracy of the future can be defeated for an instant by the quality of the opposition.

Harry Sommers' Address

Col. Harry Sommers, editor of the Elizabeth Town News, and a lawyer, said from the days of 1896, spoke in part as follows:

"This is an auspicious gathering, which brings together so many distinguished citizens of the Commonwealth to do honor to the foremost private citizen of America. A man of such high accomplishments, with different views on many questions, but all of whom would destroy the state, I have been a long time to wait ten minutes on 'The Influence of the Saloon' on the American people."

the plume of W. J. Bryan is to be at the front of the great battle.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

All About You and Your Neighbors

FALLS OF ROUGH.

(To late for last week.)

Mr. Wells Green is in Louisville at the Norton Infirmary on account of a slight illness.

Miss Mildred Moorman, of Glendean, Ky., is the guest of Miss Jenie Green.

The Falls of Rough people are very much pleased over the fact that Dr. B. L. Ashmore has located at this place. Dr. Ashmore is a bright young doctor and we all wish him the greatest success for the coming year.

Ernest Duncan and wife and three children are visiting relatives on Falls. Mr. Duncan was formerly of this place, but several years ago he left here and located in Illinois. He has returned this time to stay and has bought a nice farm at Kingswood, Ky.

Dr. Oment, of Short Creek, was at the Falls one day this week.

Fred Bright was at the Falls Tuesday.

Robert Fisher, of Rockvale, was at the Falls Tuesday.

J. West Cheek, of Askins, was also here Tuesday.

There will be services at the Methodist church here Sunday being the regular church day. Rev. Raymond Oliver will conduct the services.

J. S. Quermous, who fell some time ago and broke his leg, we are glad to say, is improving slowly. Mr. Quermous is the filer and foreman for Green Brothers at the saw mill.

Arlie Eskridge, who was hurt this place December 4th, is improving rapidly. Mr. Eskridge was struck on the head by a piece of flying timber and rendered unconscious.

Mark Nottingham, sawyer for Green Brothers, at the saw mill, has moved back to the Falls. Mr. Nottingham has been living on his farm about three miles east of the Falls.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown, a boy.

HOPEWELL.

(To late for last week.)

Mr. Hermon Miles, who has been in Oregon for several years, was called to McHenry on account of the death of his sister, is now visiting his uncle, Mr. John Miles, of this community.

Mr. C. G. Taylor received a letter from Mrs. J. B. Hayworth, who was born and raised in a half mile of him, that his cousin left Owensboro November 29th for Oregon. Arrived in Springfield Dec. 4th and says it is pleasant there. Grass is good pastures, but snow on the mountains; likes the country and the climate fine.

Messrs. Luther and Charley Brown, Will Chinn, Roscoe Wilson attended the burial of Uncle Ab Chapman, who died Tuesday night.

We are having some winter. It commenced snowing here Friday; all day Saturday and Saturday night. It will average about a foot deep.

Mr. John Miles killed four hogs that tipped the beam at 1,074 lbs.; also C. G. Taylor killed four that weight 1,166 pounds.

OLATON.

(To late for last week.)

Last week we had the highest water we have had for some time. The water got so high that they had to run a small boat to carry persons across from the eastern part of Olaton. Now we have the biggest snow we have had for the last few years and cold weather along with it.

Esq. Dean will hold his court tomorrow at Dundee where there are several cases of the Olaton boys to be tried for violating the law. Olaton has been quiet a different town the last few weeks in the way of order and we hope that it will continue so to be and we think will be if we "can" King Alcohol in our town. We have a good set of young men at Olaton only when they get too much booze then they seem to want to tear out a strip.

Boss Allen sold a house to a Mr. Wilson.

Rev. Byrd Bandy, of Fordsville, came over Saturday morning to fill his regular appointment Sunday at the Methodist church, but the weather was so bad and snow so deep that he did not have any service.

Most all tobacco has been sold and delivered in this vicinity. Some went to Narrows and some to Fordsville, but a great deal of it went to Owensboro and sold on the loose leaf floor. The farmers have certainly got good prices for what they have raised on their farms this last year.

If there is anything in talk there will be the greatest effort to raise tobacco this year than ever before. If they would raise more wheat, corn, oats, hay, potatoes and vegetables it will be easier money made. Irish potatoes are $2.25 per bushel. Navy beans 15c per pound.

The sections hands had to work Sunday. They cleared the snow off platforms at the different stations.

Mrs. Nancy Storms, whose illness I have mentioned many times before, is still in a serious condition and not expected to recover.

Miss Zella Lyons went to Louisville last week to purchase some goods for R. L. Arms' store.

Mr. Charles L. Wedding, our special deputy for Olaton, has not been staying around Olaton very close the last few days as everything seems to be very quiet and we hope will continue so.

Success to the new editor.

EASTVIEW.

(To late for last week.)

One of the heaviest snow storms passed over this section Saturday that has fallen here in a number of years.

Messrs. James and Albert Stewart went to Owensboro with tobacco Thursday returning Friday.

Messrs. A. T. French and C. Duke went to Owensboro Monday returning Tuesday.

Under the Republican administration we hauled our tobacco to Owensboro and sold it for three, two and one; now they are coming to the barn and giving three tens for it. Mr. T. B. Ambrose sold his tobacco for three tens and they came to the barn and got it.

Born to the wife of Mr. George Ambrose on the 9th, a girl.

Mr. B. W. Taylor made a business trip to Owensboro Thursday.

Mr. Fox Brown left last Sunday on the steamer Evansville for Bowling Green with nine good mules for sale.

Mr. Louis Taylor, of DeKalb, Tex., came again in the good old Herald for we like to hear from our relatives in their faraway home.

BEAVER DAM.

Jan. 22.—Beaver Dam was on a boom last week. The Barnes and Cooper stores put on sales of their wares at 10 per cent. discount which brought many of the peomendry to town.

Saturday afternoon there was a farmers meeting which was largely attended. It was presided over by Mr. Will Travis. The County Agent W. W. Browder, was present and gave them an interesting talk. After quite a number of talks from the farmers on various subjects pertaining to farming, it was voted to have another chautauqua in Beaver Dam in the near future and the following committee on arrangements was appointed: Messrs. Silas Stevens, Luther Chinn, Will Rhoads, Henry Pirtle and Will Travis. Everything went off harmoniously.

Your correspondent had the pleasure of attending chapel exercises of the Beaver Dam High School this morning. Miss Addie Belle Taylor, one of the primary teachers, conducted the exercises. Prof. Claude Shultz with his corps of teachers is doing a great work for Beaver Dam—has an enrollment of 252 with 68 in the High School. Fourteen have entered the school since New Year from out of town. They are, Norine Coleman, Blanche Park, Thompson Taylor, Dewey Barnes, Hallie Monroe, David Barnes, Ethel Williams, Coakley Gray, Conn Coleman, Newton Raines, J. L. Blankenship, R. B. Brown, Jesse Daniel.

Rev. R. L. Creal has resigned the pastorate of Beaver Dam Baptist Church to accept a call to Barborville, Ky. He will preach his farewell sermon to the church Tuesday evening. He will leave shortly with his family for his new field.

Miss Addie Belle Taylor spent the week-end with friends in Echols, Ky.

Mr. Fred Taylor, of Princeton, Ky., is in town on business.

Mr. Hamp Maddox, of Taylor Mines, died last week and was interred in the Chapman burying ground. He had been operated on three years ago from which he never recovered. He leaves a wife and children.

TAFFY.

Jan. 21.2.—Roads are very bad in this community. There was no Sunday School Sunday on account of the rainy day.

Mrs. James Ambrose, who has been ill for some time, is worse.

M. G. Funk has purchased a new organ.

Mr. Ira D. Funk and wife have moved home from Sunnysdale, where his wife has been engaged as teacher for the past seven months.

Mr. Ernest Royal and family moved into our midst this week.

Mr. Tom Patton spent Friday night with J. E. Funk.

Mrs. Gertrude Funk visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Raymond, at Adaburg, Saturday.

Cleve Baxley, of Sunnysdale, was here on business, Saturday.

BEECH VALLEY.

Jan. 22.—Rev. L. D. Duncan failed to fill his regular appointment at this place on account of illness.

Mr. Henry Magan, wife and little daughter Miss Beatrice, from Canaan, Mo., has come to make his home at this place.

Mrs. Willie Babbitt is very ill at this writing.

Mr. Altha Johnson has purchased a fine horse.

HORSE BRANCH.

Jan. 22.—There is considerable sickness in this vicinity at present, mostly a flu gripe.

Mr. Tom Ford, who has been ill of pneumonia, is recovering.

Mrs. Susie Miller, who has been suffering with rheumatism, is also improving.

Mrs. Mike Pryor, of Leitchfield, visited here last Thursday and Friday. Her husband is flagman on the Owensboro branch line.

Dr. Bean, our local physician, has just returned from Paducah, where he went to accompany a patient to the hospital. Miss Clara May, of Olaton, visited Mrs. Bean during the Doctor's absence.

Miss Pearl Rains, who has been teaching near Beaver Dam, has completed her school and returned home.

Quite a number from Horse Branch attended the dance at Olaton, Friday night.

Horse Branch has been snow-bound for the past few days and it was with genuine delight that most of the inhabitants welcomed the rain which lifted the crystal curtain.

The school here will close the first week in February. Mr. Ford is to be congratulated upon his success as a teacher, and more especially because of the tendencies toward thrift and cleanliness which he has inculcated in the minds of the pupils, the evidence of which is the marked improvement in the schoolhouse and playgrounds. For this he reserves the thanks of the patrons.

SULPHUR SPRINGS.

Jan. 22.—Have had some very cold weather with a great of snow. It is all off the ground at present; but the weather indications point to more.

This is moving season and quite a number of renters have already moved and others will move soon. Charles Dever has moved onto his father's farm on Hall's creek, and George W. Spinks has moved off of said farm to his own farm near Jingo.

Most growers have delivered their tobacco and prices received have been generally satisfactory, due mostly to the farmers organization, and if the summer crop to be raised this year is as large as the winter crop raised around the firesides this winter there will be the largest crop in history.

Adolphus Murphy is getting out poles to extend the party line from Dundee switchboard and will put in a telephone in a short time.

Earl Cox, who worked in Illinois last year and who is visiting his parents at this time, talks of going back to Illinois in the spring, but his actions would indicate that he will raise a crop with Lon Schoader, near Red Hill.

Did you ever stop to think that the greatest source of trouble through life and even in life itself is misfits, and the most glaring example I have seen is a sixteen year old boy going from a dance hanging on the arm of a grass widow.

More land changing hands than usual this winter. Chester Roach has bought fifty acres of the land near Jingo known as the Hoover land. Several more trades on the way but not far enough advanced to report.

SIMMONS.

Jan. 22.—Mrs. Sallie Stone, of Dale, Ind., is visiting here this week.

Miss Francis Hodges, Beaver Dam, visited her uncle, I. W. Hodges Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. Lon Ralph, candidate for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of this county, was in our midst last week.

Messrs. James Moore and R. C. Vance went to Hartford Saturday on business.

Misses Nellie Johnson and Martha Sanderfur closed a very successful school here Friday. The children and parents as well as one or two others were sorry to see the school close and the girls leave for home.

Messrs. James and Golda Stewart and Homer Martin went to Owensboro Thursday with tobacco.

Mr. B. W. Taylor is dangerously ill with asthma.

Mr. Rufus Chapman is on the sick list.

One of the greatest acts of President Wilson's administration would be to have Congress pass an act to do away with the electoral college and elect the President by the popular vote of the people.

Union, Ky., Jan. 19, 1917.

Editor Hartford Herald, Hartford, Ky. Dear Sir:—I notice from label on my paper that my time is out for The Herald. Find enclosed $1.00 to renew my subscription, as I don't want to miss a copy.

I was in McHenry in December in a meeting with Pastor Ferrel at the Baptist church. We had a great meeting—26 confessions of faith.

Greetings to the new editor.

REV. ALBERT MADDOX.

It has just about gotten so in this country that the landlord is considered grasping if he collects rent enough to pay his taxes.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD.

Practically a daily at the price of a weekly. No other newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. The great war in Europe is now half-way into its third year, and whether peace be at hand or yet be far off, it and the events to follow it are sure to be of absorbing interest for many months to come.

These are world-shaking affairs, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, is compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.

The Thrice-A-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Hartford Herald together for one year $1.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

WHO WANTS TO BE

JAILER IN TRIGG?

Only Seven Prisoners Placed in Jail During Last Five Months Of 1916.

Cadiz, Ky.—As an evidence of what prohibition has done for Cadiz and Trigg county, the following report of our City Marshal for 1916 is submitted: There were only twenty-three arrests made during the year, ten of these being for drunkenness. From October 10 to January 1 he only made two arrests, only one arrest being made during the entire month of December, that being on the 28th.

During the last five months of the year there were only seven prisoners placed in the county jail here, which is also used as the "lock-up" for the city, and two of these did not remain over night. Two of the other five only remained one night, while none of the other three remained over ten days. For three months during this time there was not a prisoner in the jail.

A CHINAMAN WILL HAVE TO USE THE DERN THING

Washington, D. C.—After many persons had given up in despair, a Chinaman has perfected a shorthand system for the Chinese language and has opened schools in China. The system, as described in advices to the Commerce Department today, permits a speed of 140 words a minute.

The great difficulty in the way of writing Chinese in shorthand has been the lack of written vowels and consonants in the language. The characters representing the language do not express specific sounds. The same syllable often too, may be spoken in as many as nine different tones, each having a separate meaning.

Pig's Foot With Five Toes.

Joe Robertson, colored, brought into this office one day last week pig's foot on which there were perfectly developed toes. The toes were all of the same size, and the pig had evidently made use of all of them when walking. The foot was taken from a pig slaughtered by Moses Avis, who had raised it from birth and fattened it for killing without being aware of its wealth of toes, and it was only after it was slaughtered that he discovered the malformation.—Kentucky Standard.
